

IFSL Equilibrium Cautious

Portfolio A Acc | May 2021

The Fund aims to deliver returns greater than inflation over a minimum of 5 years, through a combination of capital growth, that is profit on investments, and income paid out of investments, such as interest and dividends, after any charges have been taken out of the Fund. However, there is no certainty this will be achieved. Over the longer term, any 10 year period, the Fund aims to deliver an average of inflation plus 4% per annum. Inflation is measured as the UK Consumer Prices Index for these purposes. The Fund will invest at least 80% in other funds and investment trusts (collectively 'Investment Funds').

Commentary

In the past month non-essential shops have re-opened, along with pubs and restaurants for outside dining only. Luckily for publicans the weather has largely been good! If we are to believe the evidence of our own eyes and judge based on how busy shops and pubs are, then our economy is in the midst of a strong recovery. This is also backed up by hard evidence in the form of business surveys – globally as well as here in the UK - many of which are at the highest levels they have been in years.

This recovery story continues to play out in markets, with the FTSE 100 breaching the 7,000 in the past month for the first time since the pandemic. We continue to believe the UK has some catching up to do and particularly favour smaller companies which have most to gain from an ongoing recovery.

Looking at the US market we have noted some excellent company results, notably from the big technology firms. More generally, most earnings figures are coming in either in line with or often ahead of what analysts had estimated. However, the companies are not necessarily seeing the reward in terms of share price movements. Generally, markets are either not reacting or are reacting slightly negatively to earnings reports, unless they are significantly ahead of expectations. This backs up our view that some markets have got a bit ahead of themselves, with prices rising faster than expected earnings. We would not be surprised if we saw something of a correction in coming months, but we expect this would be a buying opportunity rather than a concern.

Expectations for a recovery have also been reflected in the bond market where yields have risen this year. However, these have largely stabilised for now. We still expect rates to be held at close to zero for the next year or two. However, central banks will have to start discussing when they begin to taper quantitative easing in the next few months. We continue to position the fund relatively cautiously, with more than usual in fixed interest and short dated fixed interest. We have recently added to property in the form of the Supermarket Income REIT and continue to look at opportunities in the specialist property space, which we believe can provide a good yield and some inflation protection.
