Commentary

We had more updates from the investee companies in April. Three of them announced trading results; Learning Technologies, Ashtead and AB Dynamics all had decent figures accompanied by dividend increases of 5%, 10% and 20% respectively. Five other companies, including Jet2 and Nichols (Vimto), provided updates on current trading with all reporting numbers in-line or even slightly ahead of market forecasts.

On May 1st, one of the Portfolio holdings, Alpha Financial Markets, announced that it had been approached by two private equity companies, each looking to bid for the company. The shares rose 40% on the news and we await the details from each bidder before we decide what to do. There have been a few of these competing bid situations in the market recently and in some cases it turns into a frenetic auction with each bidder so keen to outbid the other that financial rationality goes out the window. Let's hope we benefit from such animal spirits in this situation too!
